

The aims of the BC Parks Occasional Paper Series are to promote interest and understanding of issues relating to the protection, presentation and management of the protected areas under BC Parks' jurisdiction. These papers contribute to scientific knowledge, and to an information base that will assist BC Parks in its stewardship of these areas.

BC Parks has statutory obligations for the protection of the natural environment; the conservation and maintenance of recreational values; and to conserve representative and special natural ecosystems, species features and phenomena. BC Parks, therefore, has a commitment to protect, present and manage, for all time, the natural and cultural heritage conserved in provincial parks and ecological reserves, and the recreational values in provincial parks.

Researchers and authors wishing to publish in this series should contact the editor. Guidelines for contributors are available. All comments and suggestions should also be sent to the editor.
